

In delegate race

Ford makes inroad in Reagan strength

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — Ronald Reagan's campaign leaders had predicted a clean sweep in Republican delegate selection here, but Reagan had to settle for five delegates to three for President Ford in the opening round.

A ninth delegate selected Friday at congressional district caucuses was uncommitted; 16 at-large delegates will be elected tonight at the state Republican convention.

Despite his less than spectacular showing here, and Ford's strong win in delegate elections Thursday in North Dakota, Reagan continued to predict a first-ballot victory for the Republican presidential nomination.

In Washington, meanwhile, Ford was making exactly the same prediction.

Reagan now stands at 984 delegates, 47 behind Ford's 1,031, according to an Associated Press count. The nomination requires 1,130 delegate votes. There are 171 uncommitted delegates and 71 still to be selected.

Reagan had won the six GOP delegates selected in earlier Colorado district caucuses. His chief spokesman here, Michael South, predicted before Friday's delegate selection that Reagan would sweep the state's 25 remaining delegates.

It did not work that way, but the five delegates he picked up Friday gave Reagan a solid 11-3 lead and a good chance to take most, if not all, the 16 at-large delegates.

In North Dakota on Thursday, Ford won 10-3, with five uncommitted delegates, also short of the 9-9 split Reagan had hoped for.

Reagan, meanwhile, was talking Friday about the future — a Reagan administration in Washington. He said there would be no place in that administration for Vice President Nelson Rockefeller.

Check forgery suspects included

Grand jury indicts seven

Seven indictments were returned Friday by a session of the Fayette County grand jury in Fayette County Common Pleas Court. In one case, a Lyndon man, who is currently incarcerated in the Pike County jail, was indicted on a charge of check fraud.

Hugh Gunter, 18, of Lyndon, has been indicted for complicity in the passing of a bad $220 check at the Glass Used Car dealership, 2782 CCC Highway-W, on June 10.

Another Lyndon man, Arnold R. Huntsman, 23, has been charged by Fayette County sheriff's deputies with passing the bad check.

Ralph Thomas, 20, and Jean A. Thomas, 18, both of Bloomingburg, were each indicted on seven counts of complicity in check forgery. Together with David Whaley, 19, of Bloomingburg, who has been indicted on seven counts of check forgery, the three are alleged to have passed approximately $550 in forged checks to various Washington C.H. businesses during the early part of June.

All three defendants are currently free on bond.

Whaley is being represented by Robert Brubaker, a Washington C.H. attorney, while the Thomases are being represented by Fred J. Scurry, a Lyndon attorney.

Mrs. Pearl M. Bott, 38, of William-sport, was indicted for grand theft. Washington C.H. police officers arrested her June 20, after she was reported to have been in the process of stealing a color television from the Buckeye Mart Store in the Washington Square Shopping Center. She has been released on bond, and will be represented by Robert Brubaker in her upcoming trial.

Arnold R. Lewis, 27, of Washington Manor Court, indicted for check forgery, was arrested Friday night by Fayette County sheriff's deputies. He allegedly passed a $40 forged check at the Courtview Restaurant, Main Street, sometime during the middle of April.

Coffee Break . . .

AN ADDED feature has been planned by the Washington C.H. Altrusa Club for the tour of historical sites in Fayette County from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday.

Club members announced that Kenneth Craig, president of the Fayette County Historical Society, plans to take photographs of persons on the tour who have either taught in or attended a one-room school. The photography session will be held at the Fairview School on Mills Road, off U.S. 35-S.

The historical tour of Fayette County sites is open to the public. Headquarters for the tour will be the Fayette County Courthouse and at the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church.

The homes of Marian Moore and William Pool in Washington C.H. are on the tour. Tourists will also view a round barn on the Camp Grove Road and Cochran Cemetery, near New Martinsburg.

Tour guides at will be at all sites to explain pertinent historical information.

A TOTAL of 160 lucky Ohioans have claimed prizes of $10,000 in the first 15 days of the Ohio Lottery's new instant game.

Gerald J. Patronite, executive director of the Ohio Lottery, today estimated sales for that same period at approximately $14.5 million, with the second week of the instant ticket sales holding at over $7.5 million. In addition to the $1.6 million awarded in prizes of $10,000, $6,525,000 has been given out in thousands of other prizes to winning ticket holders. The general revenue fund of the state will receive $5.8 million from the proceeds of the instant game for that period.

The Ohio Lottery instant game is projected to run through early September. A jackpot drawing with a top prize of $1 million, a second prize of a half-million dollars, and a third prize of $250,000, is tentatively scheduled for October.

The $10,000 winners in the area include Robert Taylor of Greenfield and Robert Liston of Circleville.

member of the board of directors, Julie Beth Crabtree, the 1972 Ohio Leukemia Girl, and Leroy Crabtree, a Washington C.H. leukemia society volunteer. Volunteers were honored for helping raise over $188,000 to support the society's programs of research, patient aid and public and professional education.

Carter staffers get geared up

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Carter no longer expects the Democratic national convention to be the fight of his political life. But if it were, he'd be prepared.

More than 600 Carter staff members and volunteers have moved into the Americana hotel in midtown Manhattan and set up a headquarters for next week's convention. The Carter organization might be more suited for a presidential contender expecting to sweat over every delegate and every state delegation.

Carter had the nomination locked up weeks ago and really only has to worry about his choice of a vice presidential running mate.

Yet in his hotel headquarters, speech writers huddled, secretaries typed schedules, volunteers painted signs for a welcoming rally, telephones rang and the pace was slightly frantic and relaxed at the same time.

Carter staff aides wore color coded photo identification tags, each color denoting both importance and access to a different part of the headquarters. An orange tag was said to be good for admission to the candidate's floor.

Young volunteers fanned out across Manhattan on Friday distributing thousands of leaflets inviting New Yorkers to "Meet Jimmy Carter."

They taped posters showing the former Georgia governor's famous smile to the sides of trash cans and the walls of building. They painted their message on the blacktop of Manhattan streets.

One paraded outside the main door of the hotel wearing an Uncle Sam suit and carrying a "Spirit of 76" American flag.

The staff prepared for Carter's arrival and for his meeting today with Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., one of several senators being interviewed about the vice presidential slot on the ticket.

Mrs. Nixon said not out of danger

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — As good wishes swamp the switchboard and flowers flood her room, doctors say the next two days are crucial to Pat Nixon's recovery from a partially paralyzing stroke.

Dr. John Lungren, the Nixon family physician, told a news briefing Friday that Mrs. Nixon, 64, is not yet out of the "life-threatening" stage.

"It seems more optimistic," he said, "but I would say the next 48 hours is an important time. We would hope that she would return to complete normal function, but only time and observation are going to give us the answer."

Lungren said Mrs. Nixon still has weakness and some loss of feeling in her left arm, left leg, and the left side of her face. He said her speech remains slurred and she can walk only with assistance.

Although the former First Lady is still partially paralyzed from the stroke, doctors say her blood pressure has returned to normal.

Former President Richard M. Nixon spoke to reporters after visiting his wife Friday and said is optimistic about his wife's recovery.

"Because her spirit is good, she's going to see this thing through," he said. "She's going to beat it."

Nixon, looking tired and grim, shook hands with wellwishers as he left the hospital through the main lobby.

To reporters, he spoke of his wife's strength, saying she "has been through a great many difficult experiences over many years, and one characteristic she has is self-reliance. She's a fighter. She isn't giving up. That, combined with the excellent care she's been receiving from doctors, means she will have a full recovery."

Guard maneuvers fatal to horses?

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — The Wyoming National Guard conducted heavy artillery maneuvers at an Army base about 15 miles from where 40 wild horses later died mysteriously, it has been learned.

The firing took place after a government expert on wild horses warned against such activity at two sites closer to the herd's watering area.

The warning said noise from such firing could kill the animals.

A copy of the warning was obtained by The Associated Press on Friday. It terms the firing near the watering area a violation of a federal wild horse protection law. With the copy was a cover letter dated May 11 which the Bureau of Land Management said was sent to the logistics director at Dugway Proving Ground, an Army base that was the site of the firing.

The warning said the firing would cause the horses "to stand on the periphery of the area they have been accustomed to using while doing without food and water. If this occurs, animal condition will be depressed and the death of a number of animals is probable."

Officials have been trying to find out why the 40 horses suddenly died in the remote desert area of Utah where the base is located. Preliminary laboratory tests have appeared to rule out such natural causes as disease or environmental contamination. Fresh water was available, but preliminary tests on the carcasses indicate a lack of water.

Swine flu accord eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Health, Education and Welfare Secretary David Mathews has offered to help remove a major obstacle to a national vaccination program by serving as a mediator between insurance firms and swine flu vaccine manufacturers worried about lawsuits.

Mathews told President Ford Friday that he would meet with insurance and pharmaceutical representatives on Tuesday to determine if an agreement can be reached.

Ford heard reports from health officials at the White House and then urged that the immunization program go forward.

Mathews and Dr. Theodore Cooper said that the inoculation project could begin in August, a few weeks later than planned. But they said the goal of inoculating the population by December could be met.

Veteran mules saved from death

VALLEY FORGE, Pa. (AP) — Twenty-one mules, veterans of the bicentennial wagon train, have been purchased for $200 each by a group concerned that the mules might end up as dog food.

The Women's Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals bought the animals before they could reach the auction block.

Robert Hudson, executive director of the society, said those were the only animals whose fate was in doubt.

"We bought the mules to eliminate any possibility of these animals being slaughtered and used for dog food," said Hudson. "Also, we wanted to prevent their being used as novelty animals by people who have no knowledge how to care for them."

Many Pennsylvanians, including Gov. Milton Shapp, had expressed concern over the fate of the animals, who drew a line of covered wagons to Valley Forge for Fourth of July celebrations. There had been reports that dog food brokers would be at the auction.

"The American Bicentennial spirit was perfectly captured by cross-country trek Bicentennial Wagon Train," Shapp said in a telegram to the Marland C. France Stables in Doylestown, Pa., site of the auction.

"(I) Urge your every precaution that these animals sold to buyers who will insure their lives are lived out with dignity, rather than be mere food for dogs."

Hudson said the agency's board of directors authorized him to buy the mules from Pat Doran, who had traveled with the train from Blaine, Wash.

Hudson said he and other SPCA officials had interviewed every horse and mule owner in Valley Forge and found that only Doran planned to put animals up for public auction.

2.5 mill request eyed

Board to consider property tax levy

A resolution to seek a 2.4 mill property tax levy on the November ballot will be considered Monday night by the Washington C.H. Board of Education.

Among the items to be presented at the regular board meeting is a second draft of the 1977 budget. An apparent deficit in operating funds prompted board members to investigate a millage request during the previous meeting.

The reappraisal of Fayette County property will result in a decrease in the current school millage of approximately 2.45 mills, according to the estimate of Fayette County auditor Mary Morris.

Although there was a substantial increase in property values in Washington C.H., the accompanying reduction in millage will yield only $50,000 more money for the school system in 1977 than there was in 1976, according to the budget draft.

Meanwhile estimated expenditures will increase by more than $150,000.

The board will consider the millage as a means of overcoming the deficit.

Other items will be considered. Among them are continued rental of the former Sunnyside Elementary School buildings bids on milk and bread for the school year, textbook purchases, and several personnel matters.

The board will convene at 7:30 p.m. in the office of the superintendent near the Paint Street entrance to the Washington C.H. Middle School.

Death sentences upheld in Angola

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Death sentences for one American and three British mercenaries have been upheld by Angolan President Agostinho Neto despite appeals by President Ford and Queen Elizabeth II, according to Portuguese government officials.

President Ford said Friday he was shocked by Neto's action and hoped the Angolan president would reconsider.

Opinion And Comment

Garbage supply problem

Detroit plans to erect a 100-million-dollar plant to produce electric power from garbage. Though the idea of recycling on this scale makes the ecologist's heart go pitter patter, a cloud the size of a gapefruit rind has appeared on the horizon: authorities are worried less there not be enough garbage to keep the plant going.

It's something to fret about, granted. Still, if there's one thing cities are good at, it's producing garbage. Our confidence in the ability of the people of Detroit to provide that power plant with fuel remains unshaken.

Wild horse herd control

Another of those conflicting rights situations has arisen with regard to wild horses in the West. The Supreme Court has ruled that a law safeguarding them is within constitutional authority to regulate use of federal lands. The herds have doubled since the 1971 law was passed, however, and ranchers complain of excessive pressure on scarce water and forage.

What the situation clearly demands is a humane method of keeping the number of wild horses at a reasonable level. The current "adoption" program being carried on by the Bureau of Land Management is not doing the job. Horse lovers resist the idea of killing any of these animals. But some may have to be sacrificed under carefully prescribed conditions to protect the legitimate interests of ranchers in wild horse areas.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

SUNDAY, JULY 11

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

Stellar influences more auspicious than they may seem at first. Be consistent in effort and not timid about advancing new ideas or plans, and all should go well.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

A fine day for artistic and social interests. In all things, capitalize on your finesse and know-how.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Mercury influences stimulate your ingenuity, quick wit and perceptiveness. You should give a fine performance. Do - because others are depending on you.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

An excellent period for personal betterment, social affairs and long-range planning. Shun a tendency to "keep up with the Joneses," however.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You are due for a unique surprise now, or soon, unless you work at odds with congenial influences. Wrap up duties without delay; save time for rest and relaxation.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Favorable influences. Be eager to improve all situations, particularly in "small" details, so often overlooked or considered unimportant.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Splendid influences! Especially avored: creativity, originality. An excellent period for making new friends, cementing old ties.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Planetary aspects suggest that you train thoughts along constructive lines as you move discreetly. Penetrate below the surface to learn the full truth in all situations.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Care needed in experimentation, hastily contrived messages and writings; also transportation. Reason things out to a logical conclusion, then initiate appropriate measures.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Take constructive action on a project you may have had in mind for some time. With good planning, you should be able to put it over now.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Good stellar influences govern new projects as well as everyday routine. Cooperate with those who have both know-how and integrity. An excellent day for doing well.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Not everything will go as you planned now, but remain steadfast. Your keen mind and innate common sense should see you through - and well.

YOU BORN TODAY have - unlike most persons born under your Sign - an extremely outgoing nature and love the limelight. The stage, therefore, is a natural outlet for the expression of your personality. However, there are other fields in which these characteristics could prove outstanding assets, notably in the legal profession, which could lead to politics or statesmanship; on the lecture platform or, if you have a religious bent, as many Cancerians have, you could also become a most eloquent clergyman. Highly articulate, you could also succeed as a writer or teacher. If business attracts you, merchandising would be your best bet. Traits to curb: jealousy and excessive materialism.

MONDAY, JULY 12

ARIES

(March 21 to April 20)

A good day for starting or developing new business associations. Actually, all partnerships - career-wise or marital - are in high favor.

TAURUS

(April 21 to May 21)

A financial idea put to you in the forenoon will be worth consideration. On the personal side, social activities could produce a strain. Don't overtax yourself.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

A excellent period for cutting monetary losses, streamlining your affairs generally. But do nothing impulsively. Careful deliberation needed.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Certain events of this day can act as guideposts in the future. Keep attuned to new trends and don't miss a trick.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Some misleading influences.

Carefully screen new acquaintances and don't let even the best of friends impose on your good nature.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

A great day for teamwork! Many useful ideas will result from an exchange of views with associates. Some good news indicated in the p.m.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

A good period for branching out in new fields if your regular obligations allow you the time. On the personal side: romance and travel favored.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

Your intuition at a peak now. Early morning hunches will be especially good. Follow them up. Also, take advantage of some "inside information."

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

If you're planning a new venture, it would be best to "go it alone" for the present. Associates may be unreliable or impractical.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

You can fashion this day much to your liking IF you take into consideration the necessity of pre-planning and the involvement of others. Avoid extremes.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

A good day in which to display your ingenuity and all-around competence. Properly exercised, even your most minor talents and efforts will be appreciated.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to March 20)

Persistence may be the key to advancing your personal plans. Exert yourself, and friends will rally 'round and give their support.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with a magnetic personality, tremendous energy and a lively imagination. The lunar influences which govern your life also bestow upon you an intense idealism, and make you an outstanding humanitarian. You are, however, a paradoxical combination of self-assertion and timidity - the former in your dealings with family and loved ones, with whom you insist on being "boss"; the latter in career situations, where you incline to underestimate your abilities and require constant bolstering of your confidence. Unusually versatile, there are many fields in which you could succeed - depending on your inclinations and education, of course. Outstanding among them: science, art, the law, medicine, music, invention and the theater. Once having gained faith in yourself, no heights will be inaccessible to you.

"CONGRESSIONAL REFORM? NEXT THEY'LL EXPECT US TO WORK A FIVE DAY WEEK."

Youthful criminals given 2nd chance

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Youthful criminal offenders in this city can have a second chance, thanks to a special probationary program developed by the police department.

"Our plan is for the child who messed up once but wants a clean future," says Sgt. David Cogger, who administers the program. "There often is a need for some kind of punishment that falls between a verbal reprimand and a trip to court."

The voluntary program essentially is a written contract between Cogger, the parents and the juvenile stipulating what the youth can and cannot do during the 3-to 4-month probation.

Portions of the contract call for the juvenile to be home by 10 p.m., attend school, make constant checks with Cogger and stay away from any businesses selling alcoholic beverages.

Cogger keeps no record of who has been in the program or how many youths have participated.

"If a kid goes through the full period abiding the contract, there is no record," he says.

"When a youth has finished the period, he is completely clean. But if the contract is violated, he goes right to court."

Cogger estimates he has success with 9 of 10 participations for the three-year program.

"I've had kids who've committed felonies in this program," Cogger says. "After checking with school officials and court records, I'll decide if someone belongs in the plan."

"Then I offer the parents and offender the alternative of the program or a trip to court. Each case is different, so I treat each kid individually."

Cogger initiated the program because of dissatisfaction with a straight probation plan.

"A conventional probation program is often too large and consistently not followed up due to manpower deficiencies," Cogger says. "Some offenses also do not need to be taken to court marring a youth's record by a juvenile mistake."

Dear Abby:

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Have motherly talk before it's too late

DEAR ABBY: We have a livein girl, age 21, who helps with the housework and is wonderful with our three young children. (I'll call her "Nancy." Nancy was a farm girl who came to us from a home for unwed mothers after having had an illegitimate child, which she gave up for adoption.

Nancy is sweet and fun-loving, but she's not too bright in the ways of the world. Recently she met a young man at church with whom she's been spending a lot of time. Yesterday she asked for the weekend off to go fishing with him.

I know Nancy is of age, but I worry about her. My husband says I should have a motherly talk with her, send her to my doctor and have him put her on the Pill. She's not a tramp, Abby, but I don't want her to get pregnant again if she is going all the way with this fellow, and she probably is. She's a Catholic and doesn't believe in abortion.

Even though she's 21, I feel responsible for her. Am I overstepping my rights?

NAMELESS, PLEASE
DEAR NAMELESS: No. Have that talk with her and offer to send her to your doctor for whatever information or prescriptions she wants. If Nancy is sexually active, let's hope she'll agree to some form of birth control that is compatible with her religious beliefs.

DEAR ABBY: When addressing a letter to a female, is it proper to use the title "Ms." only when the marital status of the woman is unknown? Or should one use "Ms." to address ALL women, regardless of their marital status?

We are having a heated debate in this office over that question.

SIGN ME "MS."

DEAR MS.: Who's to say what's "proper"? If I know that my correspondent is married, I use "Mrs." If I know she's single, I use "Miss." If her marital status is in question, I use "Ms."

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have both spent a lot of money on a dentist, not to mention the time we have spent in the dentist chair, so we are trying to instill good dental care habits in our children.

Our problem is HIS parents. I have told them countless times to PLEASE refrain from giving our children candy and other sweets, but they slip them candy and cookies when our backs are turned.

I don't know how to handle this problem, Abby. Last Easter they gave the children Easter baskets filled with jelly beans, and we couldn't very well ask the children to throw them out.

Short of not allowing his parents to see their only grandchildren, what's the solution?

LOSING PATIENTS

DEAR LOSING: There must be something about the way you've asked the grandparents to refrain that lacks conviction. Try again. And this time let them know that you mean business. They are out of line on two counts: ignoring your requests and encouraging the children to disobey their parents.

Alternative energy sources still in future

By TERRY KIRKPATRICK
AP Business Writer

It is possible today to warm your home at night with heat from the sun, run your car on a fuel made from wheat or power your electric toothbrush with the wind. It's all possible, but unlikely to happen any time soon.

Since the oil embargo in late 1973, and the sudden jump in oil prices that followed, the dream of a cheap, clean and unlimited supply of energy has led a handful of people to build solar collectors on their roofs, install methane-burning engines in their cars or erect windmills in their backyards.

And millions of dollars have been poured into research and development of these alternative energy sources since American motorists first waited an hour in line to buy gasoline.

Such spending by government and industry jumped from $145.3 million in 1973 to $402.6 million in 1975, according to a survey prepared for the U.S. House Committee on Science and Technology. And the share of industry and government energy research money going to alternate sources has been growing — from roughly 9 per cent in 1973 to 16 per cent in 1975. The rest has gone to the more conventional energy sources.

Most research money supplied by industry goes to energy forms it currently produces and sells, petroleum being number one. More government money goes to nuclear research than anything else.

In fiscal 1976, for instance, the Energy Research and Development Administration spent almost half a billion on the breeder nuclear reactor — four times the amount allocated to any other single item.

So the more exotic energy alternatives account for only a fraction of the nation's total needs. Oil, natural gas and coal carry most of the load and will for some time to come.

Those who determine how research money will be spent foresee only a limited role for solar, geothermal and synthetic fuel energy in the next decade. One estimate, by the Federal Energy Administration, is that they will supply only about 1 per cent of the total energy demand in 1985.

For the most part, the technology needed to replace some of the limited oil with unlimited sun or wind is there. The holdup barring their widespread use is economic: although the world price of crude oil has quadrupled in the past three years, it is still cheaper than most of the alternatives, say government and energy industry experts.

And some industry projects to produce a synthetic gas from coal or wring oil from shale rock, which were begun in earnest shortly after the embargo, sit idle.

"We had perceived the inevitable transformation to the more abundant resources well before the embargo," said A. L. Shrier, who directs special energy projects for Exxon Corp., the nation's largest oil company.

"We have followed shale and tar sands for 20 years. We bought coal reserves. What came instead was greater reserves in the Middle East and North Africa, which kept prices down."

That alternate fuels have not yet become competitive with Mideast oil was noted in June by Nicholas Sarkis, director of the Arab Petroleum Research Center, when he predicted that the oil exporting countries will raise their prices again later this year.

There are other problems and a look at them shows why alternative energy sources haven't developed more quickly.

—Consumer markets for new products, such as solar collectors or windmills, are undeveloped.

"What are the barriers in the way of establishing large-scale solar use?" Joseph Lindmayer, president of Solarex Corp., a leader in the development of solar cells, asked at a recent energy conference.

"We generally tend to think that what we need is a great technological breakthrough that tomorrow suddenly reduces the cost. I have slowly come to the conclusion that basically that is just not the case."

"I think that the real barriers are market development, user education, availability of capital and manpower."

For markets to function, buyers need to be aware of what is available. John M. Teem, who recently resigned as the government's chief of solar, geothermal and advanced energy systems, says there should be a greater federal role in stimulating the use of solar heating and cooling and the dissemination of information.

"I fear that without this stimulation, the private sector will not achieve the early commercial market development of solar energy which is needed," he said.

With enough buyers to support mass production, prices could come down. Lindmayer said solar cells, used almost exclusively for space projects just two years ago, have dropped to one-tenth the price since then as they have been put to use on earth.

"These changes are actually so dramatic that most individuals and organizations have not yet fully recognized this new situation," he said.

—The capital costs of some new energy forms are tremendous. (Capital is the money required to build or buy permanent plants or equipment.)

Some homeowners, for instance, could reduce their monthly utility bills by installing a rooftop solar collector to provide hot water and room heat.

But estimates of the cost of such collectors range from $4,400 to $8,000. It would take 10 to 20 years to pay for them with savings in utility bills, depending on whether they replace expensive electrical heating or cheaper oil or gas.

"Anyone buying electricity today and paying more than four or five cents a kilowatt hour is better off on economic grounds with a solar collector," Shrier says. "The problem is it has a large upfront cost. If you've got the money, that's fine. Most consumers don't."

—Industry faces enormous capital costs if it pursues the production of synthetic fuels.

Several coal-to-gas projects are in the planning stages, but such plants could cost as much as $800 million. And the gas they would produce would cost $3 to $5 per thousand cubic feet, compared with the current regulated price of 52 cents per thousand cubic feet of new, interstate gas.

A low-quality gas, called town gas, is produced in other nations and was produced in this country before the advent of natural gas pipelines.

"We hear a great deal of talk about the need to develop new technology for coal conversion," R. R. Breckenfeld of Shell Oil Co. said. "The real problem is not the availability of technology, but that the technology is not available."

"Coal gasification has been practiced commercially for 125 to 150 years. Nearly 50 commercial gasifiers are operating today. One can hardly say that the technology is not available."

Several ventures that sprang up after the embargo to top the tremendous reserves of shale oil beneath several Western states have also stalled under environmental and economic problems.

John McKinley, president of Texaco Inc., said recently that a plant to produce 100,000 barrels of oil a day from shale would cost between $1.5 billion and $2 billion and require the mining of 50 million tons of shale a year — five times the size of the largest coal mining operation in the country.

Its product would have to sell for $18 to $22 a barrel, compared with imported oil now costing $12 to $13 a barrel.

"It seems that as each year passes," McKinley said, "the possibility of oil shale making a real contribution moves two years forward."

Adults-only community popular

By DAVID POWELL
Associated Press Writer

DEERFIELD BEACH, Fla. (AP) —

When Henry Peck retired in 1974, he and his wife knew what they wanted: to spend their days lolling in the sun, enjoying the company of their friends in an adult-only community.

They visited a half-dozen retirement communities and chose Century Village East, a condominium development with 6,000 residents, 150 organized activities, lavish facilities — and no children.

"I personally prefer it (without children) because I want some peace and quiet," said Peck, a 65-year-old retiree from a Veterans Administration job in Washington. "My son is grown, and I want to be with people with whom I have a common interest, my own age group."

Sitting in the living room of their apartment in this development 3 1/2 miles from the Atlantic, the Pecks agreed their move from Silver Springs, Md., with four other couples turned out well.

"The developers have given us everything they promised," Peck said.

Like the Pecks and their friends, thousands of older Americans are choosing to spend their later days in developments that exclude children, and sometimes offer facilities and organized activities designed especially for retirees.

Government and senior citizens group officials say no one has kept track of how many adult-only communities have been built, where they are concentrated or how fast the trend has developed in recent years.

"It's one of those significant figures that no one has ever compiled that I know of," said a spokesman for the American Association of Retired Persons in Washington.

But older Americans find them anyway, from the 35,000-resident Sun

City in Arizona to the Terrace Trailer Park in Albuquerque, N.M. Many such developments are in the burgeoning Sunbelt so attractive to those who want to escape from the cold climate and urban decay of the North.

George Bergmann, president of Century Village East Inc., which developed and now manages the 762-acre Deerfield Beach complex, said one selling point of his development is the ban on youngsters.

"Under the terms of our condominium declaration we have no one living here who has children under the age of 18," Bergmann said. "But we do allow children to visit 30 days a year in increments of two weeks, so it isn't as rigid and stiff-necked as it sounds."

Henry Paparazzo, president of Heritage Village, a 2,580-unit adults-only community in Southbury, Conn., traced the no-children policy in part to developers' marketing strategies.

Paparazzo said the reason Heritage Village is successful — there are only six vacancies — is that "more specialized housing developments are gearing themselves to particular markets."

"There are swinger apartments and family complexes, and in others residents prefer not to have playgrounds outside their windows," Paparazzo said.

stimulus to the economy...." Inflation and wage and price controls might follow, it said.

An analysis of this sort seems to ignore what a lot of Americans, investors included, are fully aware of — that the big deficits, inflation and price and wage controls of recent years have been mainly Republican.

When not blaming the politicians, a favorite explanation for the malaise seems to be the general uncertainty about the immediate future of prices. A lot of Americans, they say, are fearful of more inflation.

The third scapegoat is the Federal Reserve Board. Everyone on Wall Street eagerly awaits some signal about the money supply. Is it being tightened? Is it being loosened?

Until a definite direction can be determined, say the analysts, the market isn't likely to move very far.

Slate bureau of services

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A bureau of community services is being established by the Department of Rehabilitation and Correction to serve 10,000 men and women on parole and probation in Ohio.

Creation of the new bureau completes an administrative reorganization of the division which includes the Adult Parole Authority, Bureau of Adult Detention Facilities and Services and the Bureau of Community Services.

MR. AND MRS. JAMES F. CAIN

Diane Polk, James Cain marriage is in Alabama

St. James Episcopal Church in Eufaula, Alabama was the setting on Friday, July 2, for the wedding of Diane Elizabeth Polk to James Foster Cain. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James D. Polk of this city and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl H. Cain of Eufaula, formerly of Washington C.H.

A program of nuptial selections was presented prior to the ceremony by Mrs. Margaret Garrison, organist. The double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. Jack R. Habberfield, pastor of St. James.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a formal length gown, worn by her sister, Deborah, at her wedding to Douglas Boswell, of white polished cotton with square neck and long tapered sleeves. Lace insets bordered in pale blue accented the bodice, sleeves and tiered skirt. Her satin headpiece was attached to a full, short tulle veil and her bridal bouquet was accented with pale blue streamers.

Mrs. Richard (Nina) Beasley, sister of the groom, served as matron of honor. She was wearing a pastel striped gown of sheer cotton and her multi-colored bouquet matched the colors in her gown. Her husband, Richard Beasley, served as best man for the groom.

Mrs. Polk chose for her daughter's wedding, an afternoon dress of pale melon crepe with gold accessories and Mrs. Cain chose a pale pink gown, trimmed in white, with white accessories. Both mothers were wearing white corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony, a champagne reception was held the lovely century old home of the Cains for the immediate family and close friends. Floral arrangements throughout the home and the triple-tiered wedding cake featured the pale blue accents chosen by the bride.

When the couple left for a Florida honeymoon, the bride was wearing a dress of pale green print batiste featuring a low neck and long sleeves and the orchid from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Ducey of this city and Mr. and Mrs. Sampson Polk of Sabina and the great-granddaughter of Mr. Ellis Bishop of Washington C.H.

Both graduates of Washington Senior High School, the new Mr. and Mrs. Cain are at home at Lo no. 20, Level Acres, Eufaula, Alabama, 36027.

Tour plans main topic of Altrusa Club

The meeting of the Altrusa Club was called to order by President Mrs. Gail Mershon Thursday evening. Mrs. Will Braun, recording secretary, read minutes of the June business meeting and a report of the yearly audit of the treasury book was given by Miss Helen Slavens. Mrs. Russell Ebert, vice president, gave a summary of the business and program meetings for 1976-77 year.

Bicentennial committee co-chairman, Miss Slavens, reported the final plans for the club's Bicentennial Tour of historic places of Fayette County. She assigned each member where she is to be on the tour and her duties at her designated place.

The tour is planned from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, July 11, and is free to the public. The six places designated on the tour are listed on the Society page elsewhere.

All members repeated the Altrusa benediction for the closing. Those members present were Mrs. Braun, Mrs. Ebert, Mrs. Mershon, Mrs. James Wagner, Mrs. Florence Smith, Miss Slavens, Mrs. Glenna Snyder, Mrs. Susan Link, Mrs. Jane Merritt, Mrs. Mary Lou Mazza, Mrs. Sonja Seiler, Mrs. Gladys Stitt, Mrs. Sandy Woodmansee, Mrs. Patti Briggs, Miss Norita Craycraft, Mrs. Ann Cannon, Mrs. Petty Hott and Mrs. Caryl Rhoad.

Altrusa Club tour places

The Bicentennial Tour, sponsored by the Washington C.H. Altrusa Club, is from 1 to 4 p.m. Sunday, and is free to anyone desiring to attend. The six places on the tour are the Fayette County Courthouse, Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church, a round barn on the Rodney Miller farm, the Fairview School, William Pool home, and the Archibald Willard's art work at the home of Miss Marian Moore. Headquarters for the tour will be both at the Fayette County Courthouse and at the Bloomingburg Presbyterian Church.

Bride-elect Miss Dean guest of honor

Mrs. James Mason and Mrs. Howard Smith were hostesses at a recent miscellaneous bridal shower in the Smith home given for Miss Darlene Dean, whose wedding to Mr. James Noble will take place August 6.

Pink and lavender prevailed in the decorations on the gift table. Miss Dean was presented with a milk glass centerpiece of philodendron and pink and lavender daisies.

A decorated cake, baked by Mrs. Smith, ice cream, mints and nuts were served to the guests.

Guests present were Mrs. Walter Dean, and Mrs. John Noble, mother's of the couple, Mrs. Jim Wright, Mrs. Elza Smith, Miss Jo Reeves, Mrs. Jim Osborne, Miss Carol Rex, Mrs. Harrylee Downing, Mrs. Jim Garland and Mrs. Jeff Albright. A gift was sent by Miss Jean Taylor, who was unable to attend.

Game winners were Mrs. Dean, Mrs. Osborne, Mrs. Garland, Miss Rex and Mrs. Albright, which in turn presented their gifts to the honored guest.

Out-of-town guests entertained by family gathering

Mrs. Grace Goodwin and Mrs. Martin Crone had relatives from Detroit, Mich. and Olympia Wash., as recent house guests. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Dubbennell of Detroit, and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fehring and children, Chris and Dawn, of Olympia, were also entertained Wednesday evening at the country home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Thompson, Miami Trace Rd.

About 50 relatives gathered at 6:30 p.m. when they enjoyed a picnic supper. Those sharing the evening with the guest of honor were Mr. and Mrs. Noah Kier of Springfield; Mr. and Mrs. Roland Thompson and Kris of Vandalia; Mr. and Mrs. Dick Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Austin Frederick, Mr. and Mrs. Leo Thompson, Mrs. Jane Rankin, Mrs. Senath Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Roger E. Thompson, Guy and Given, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Rankin, Sara Beth and Matt, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Hoppes, Scott and Kyle, Miss Jennifer, Thompson, Mr. Dale Thompson and sons, Chris, Jeff and Craig, and Mr. and Mrs. Bob Highfield and Brin and Debbie.

Local artists to display works at Fayette Gallery

Local artists showing works at a group show in Fayette Center Gallery beginning Thursday through August 11, are Chris Waldrup, Kathy Monroe, Esther Schlichter, Rosemary Thrailkill, Delsa Allen and Fern Miller. They will show paintings, printing, macrame and stitchery.

MR. AND MRS. DANIEL A. CROOKS

Marriage vows exchanged on lawn at Wildwood Farm

Wildwood Farm was the setting on Saturday, June 26, of the marriage of Miss Deborah Dale Miller and Mr. Daniel Allen Crooks.

Miss Miller is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Dale Miller of Wildwood Road and the grand-daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Homer Miller and Mr. C. F. Highley and the late Mrs. Highlev.

The setting for the double ring ceremony was beneath the giant oak trees at Wildwood. The couple exchanged their vows in front of a trellis entwined with garlands of ivy, daisies and bachelor buttons. On each side of the trellis were brass standards filled with arrangements of daisies and bachelor buttons.

Mr. Don Baker, minister of Northridge Church of Christ in Circleville, officiated at the ceremony, which was preceded by a program of music by Mike Provost, organist. The selections included: And I Love You So, Cycles, Three Coins in a Fountain, You are the Sunshine of My Life, Cherish, April Love, Ebb Tide, Love is a Many Splendored Thing, and the Wedding March.

The bride, given in marriage by her mother and father, walked down the lawn on the arm of her father. The empire styled gown, accented with lace motifs, was of white silk organza and trimmed with silk Venice lace with lace motifs and bishop sleeves with lace motifs. The skirt was A-lined and trimmed with garlands of lace, the train was chapel length with lace motifs. The portrait neckline was edged with scalloped lace.

Her chapel length mantilla was of silk illusion edged in Venice lace and motifs and was held in place by a lace bonnet.

Her jewelry was a diamond necklace, a gift of the groom, and diamond earrings, which were given to her by her parents. She wore an heirloom diamond and sapphire bracelet, loaned to her by her aunt, Mrs. Ervin P. Miller. She carried a colonial bouquet of yellow roses, blue bachelor buttons, stephanotis and baby's breath and in the middle of the bouquet was a lace hanky from her mother. Yellow and white ribbons tied in lover's knots accented the bouquet.

Miss Faith Susan Miller, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. Her floor-length gown was light blue with a subtle hint of white flowers. It was empire-waisted, with a white tie at the waist and had a three-tiered effect. She wore a white picture hat and carried a white fireside basket of daisies and bachelor buttons.

Miss Faith Mayhew, cousin of the bride and Miss Marilyn Swisher, both of Columbus, and Mrs. James Vaughn, California, brother of the groom, Kevin Miller, brother of the bride and James Vaughn Cleveland, friend of the couple. Their outfits were identical to that of the maid of honor.

Miss Mandy Crooks and Miss Callie Crooks of Columbus, nieces of the groom, were the flower girls. They wore white pinafores over a light blue gingham print with white bonnets. They carried white lace baskets of daisies and bachelor buttons.

Mr. Russell Crooks Jr., of Columbus, served as best man for his brother. The ushers were John Crooks of San Diego, California, brother of the groom, Kevin Miller, brother of the bride and James Vaughn Cleveland, friend of the couple.

Mrs. Miller wore for her daughter's wedding a floor-length ice blue gown with long sleeves and a high neck. Her ensemble was accented with a strand of pearls and a white cymbidium orchid pinned to her shoulder.

Mrs. Crooks was wearing a long dress of a cream-colored sari cloth with gold trim; it had a round neckline and long sleeves. The cloth was brought back to her by the groom when he was on active duty in the Far East. She wore a green cymbidium orchid.

The reception was held under a decorative tent. The bride's table was covered with a lace tablecloth entwined with garlands of daisies and bachelor buttons and centered with a four tiered wedding cake with steamers of mint, yellow, and white ribbons flowing down to two side cakes. At the top of the cake was an arrangement of daisies and bachelor buttons.

After the traditional cake cutting, in which the bride and groom used the sword which the groom carried during his active military duty, friends and relatives enjoyed champagne from a flowing fountain and a buffet catered by Miss Maxine Gilmerr. Reception music was provided by Mike Provost.

Senior hostesses for the reception were aunts of the bride, Mrs. John Mayhew, of Toronto; Mrs. Ervin P. Miller and Mrs. Walter Marshall, Wash. C. H., Ohio.

Junior hostesses were Mrs. Russell Crooks Jr., Columbus; Mrs. John Crooks, San Diego, Calif.; and Miss Linda McAlister, Columbus, Ohio. Miss Kathy Wallace, Wash. C. H., was at the guest book. Kathy and the hostesses wore daisy corsages.

When the couple left for their honeymoon in the British West Indies, the new Mrs. Crooks was wearing a navy blue and white knit dress with matching bag and shoes, and a cluster of white orchids pinned at her shoulder.

The bride, a graduate of Otterbein College, attended special sessions at L'Institut de Francais in Nice, France, and World Campus Afloat. She is a teacher with Logan Elm Schools in Circleville.

The bridegroom, a graduate of Ohio State University, was an officer in the Navy stationed in Honolulu, Hawaii, for four years and is now an officer in the Naval Reserves. He is account representative and systems analyst with Victor Comptometer Corp. in Columbus.

Upon their return from their wedding trip, the New Mr. and Mrs. Crooks will reside in Columbus.

The minimum inside finished depth of a clothes closet should be 24 inches.

MT field trip notes

July 2, 1976

This morning we awoke to the aroma of pancakes cooking. After eating breakfast our first stop of the day was at the Canyon Visitor Center. We toured the Center and watched a short film show on Yellowstone National Park. We headed towards the Grand Canyon of Yellowstone and made several roadside stops. Our first detour was at Inspiration Point which was almost too beautiful for words. The rocks boasted colors of orange, pink, white and yellow.

Our next stop was at Grand View where we took several pictures. The next two stops included one at the Upper Falls and then at the Lower Falls. At the Lower Falls, there was a trail down to the base of the water falls and some of us made the descent. We ate lunch at a roadside by the Yellowstone River. Our lunch consisted of egg salad sandwiches, which we ate while watching the trout playing in the river.

As we traveled to our next stop, we saw a Bison and we all insisted that the vans be stopped so we could get pictures of the animal. When we arrived at the Sulfur and Mud Caldrons, we took a brief hike, but took many pictures along the route. We then went to the Fishing Bridge Visitor Center, which was beside Yellowstone Lake. This Center had a wonderful collection of animals and birds that can be found in the park.

Moving on, we saw a beautiful Trumpeter Swan from the windows of the van. We soon arrived at a gift shop where we spent a half an hour browsing. A dinner of soup was eaten along the roadside and then we toured the Old Faithful Inn, which is a gigantic building made entirely of logs. In the Inn there were several balconies and when we stood atop the balconies we could look down over the lobby.

Our group met at ranger later on for a guided tour around the geysers in that area. During the hike we got to see Old Faithful erupt. This was fantastic!

Some of our group went to a nearby visitor center and watched a slide show. Eventually, we all went back to camp and turned in, completing our first full day in Yellowstone National Park.

July 3, 1976

This morning we had a repeat on yesterday's breakfast: pancakes. This pleased most of us. Our first venture of the day in Yellowstone was at the Norris Visitor Center which is filled with many beautiful pictures of plants which are indigenous to the park. Along with the pictures there were descriptions of each plant. After this, our group took a short hike to see some geysers and springs. Later on in the day, as we continued to travel throughout the park, some of the members of our group, tried their hand at fishing. No one caught anything, but it sure was fun!

The Explorer's Museum was our next stop and then we went swimming in a calm place in the a nearby river. This was fun, especially for those who were brave enough to dive off of the cliffs. Our last hike of the day was a short one around the mud pots.

We stopped at the grocery store and then went back to camp. For dinner we had chili. We went to bed, thus ending another day in our country's first national park, Yellowstone.

July 4, 1976

Happy Fourth of July!! Our day started out with cold cereal for breakfast and then we left our campsite and headed for a rock cliff which is composed of obsidian, rhyolite and granite. Later on we viewed a stream and waterfall at Golden Gate, which was the site of an earthquake in 1959.

At Mammoth Hot Springs some of the colorful springs looked snow capped. A few of the formations that we saw were, Minerva Terrace, Main Terrace and the Liberty Cap. We followed a boardwalk which took us by these amazing creations. We visited the town of Mammoth and toured the Visitor Center there. A short slide show was given.

For lunch we stopped along the roadside and ate, and then began exploring the beautiful tree-covered area around us. We then visited the Petrified Redwood Tree, which has lived for over 40 million years. Our last main stop of the day was at Tower Falls, a waterfall which derived its name because of its column-like shape.

Back at camp we celebrated Fourth of July with a dinner of ham, peas and potatoes. After dinner we started a campfire and had a short devotional service. After the service we had a snack of popcorn and then went to bed. This concluded our Fourth of July in Yellowstone National Park.

Courting customs go far back in history

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the most famous courting customs of early settlers in the New World was the practice of bundling. With New England houses small, winters cold and firewood scarce, engaged couples were permitted to lie in bed during courting visits — although fully clothed and separated by a board running the north-south axis of the bed.
However, the rock-ribbed Puritans weren't all that permissive. After bundling on Saturday night the eager New England swain still found it a legal of some of the nation's outstanding
In the early South, tobacco planters were able to purchase brides—the going rate being one pound of tobacco for each pound of bride. The purchased brides were young English women who had indentured themselves in order to defray their shipboard fare to the colonies. These purchase arrangements marked the beginning of some of the nation's outstanding southern families.
To insure against any "lawful impediments to weddings taking place," prospective brides and their grooms-to-be posted surety bonds with Massachusetts town officials in the 17th century.
Apocryphal? Old wives tales? No. All true, says a suave former British army officer, A. Raymond Key, a spokesman for the platinum industry.

In the course of his activity in the jewelry industry Key became fascinated with weddings, their history and customs and the part gems and rings play in nuptials, and began studying the subject as a hobby.
His knowledge of the subject soon led to requests to lecture before civic and women's clubs and to appearances on radio talk shows.
According to Key's study, the work "wedding" is derived from early Anglo-Saxon days when children were often betrothed by their parents. The groom's pledge was accompanied by a "wed" or security contract, furnished by his father. The ceremony, as a natural extension, was called the wedding.
The bride's veil is the last vestige of the early-day custom in Plato's Greece when brides were swathed from head to foot in white on their wedding day, according to Key.
"The custom of the marriage ring finger being the fourth finger left hand had its beginnings in ancient times when it was believed that the Venus nerve or vein ran from that digit directly to the heart," Key says.

Armco discloses irregular payments in report to SEC

MIDDLETOWN, OHIO — Armco Steel Corporation has notified the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Internal Revenue Service that an investigation initiated by its chairman and chief executive officer has identified questionable political and foreign payments.

The company stated that none of these matters will have any material effect on the company's financial condition and were previously unknown to any directors of the company.

The Middletown-based company said questionable practices were identified in three areas. Between late 1968 and 1974, it said, an aggregate of approximately $279,000 was added to salaries of 39 employees at six domestic facilities on the understanding that they turn over to other employees the after-tax portion of the additional amount. The funds turned over aggregated approximately $167,000 which, it is believed, was used for political contributions and related purposes, mostly in connection with local elections or local issues, and principally in small amounts. As to more than half of the employees involved, this practice terminated in late 1971, and as to all employees by mid-1974, the company said.

In addition, $34,000 was obtained for such purposes since 1969 at two company facilities upon submission of improper expense vouchers.

"Although he was aware of the practices, because of his stewardship over the company's affairs and his belief in the importance of protecting the company's good name," Armco said, William Verity, chief executive officer of the company, "has voluntarily undertaken to pay to the company an amount equal to $313,000 improperly diverted, less $4,000 which had not been expended and has been returned to the company."

Some indication was also found that between 1969 and mid-1972, some non-officer employees received salary increases and were told a portion was to be used for political contributions by the employees. Any such instructions, the company said, would have been regarded by Armco as improper. And at least since 1972 the company has taken particular care to emphasize the voluntary nature of any political contribution by company employees.

Also during the five-year period, 1971-1975, which was the primary focus of the company's investigation, Armco said it found that it had made improper or questionable payments totalling $110,000 mostly to foreign government officials in connection with sales of approximately $3.2 million.

In addition, the company reported it has terminated relationships with a few of the many foreign nationals representing it abroad where:

— it has been unable to assure itself of the precise nature of the services being rendered; or — has reason to believe that these individuals were involved in payments to officials of foreign government-owned businesses; or — were employed by such government-owned businesses.

Total payments by the company over the five-year period to those now terminated arrangements were $1 million and involved $22.5 million in sales.

Finally, the company said, its investigation disclosed that in one foreign area an individual and companies in which he had an interest was associated in various capacities with $98 million in Armco sales over the five-year period of this inquiry. Some of these sales were for the customer's own use, some were stocked by the customer for resale and some were used by the customer in rendering services to a foreign government-owned entity. Others were for resale by the customer to the same government-owned entity for which the customer was serving as purchasing agent. And a final portion involved sales to a foreign-owned business.

In all such sales, at the request of its foreign customer, Armco increased the prices shown on the invoices over the regular selling price and paid the excess to the customer. The aggregate of such over-invoicing was approximately $14.7 million. In addition, in connection with sales to the foreign service company, invoices were marked up a further $2.2 million at the request of one or more directors of that service company. This additional sum was disbursed at the direction of one or more directors of the service company.

While no disbursement by Armco of its foreign customer's funds indicated on its face any improper use, Armco said it "has reason to believe, in part as a result of its recent inquiry, that the customer has paid certain entertainment expenses and made other gifts, gratuities and payments, some of which may have related to the customer's business with the foreign government-owned entity."

The company has informed the Internal Revenue Service of the matters disclosed in the report, and has indicated its willingness to pay any additional amounts which may be due under the Internal Revenue Code as a result of the matters disclosed. The company is unable to predict the outcome of negotiations with the Internal Revenue Service.

Dierker no-hitter stops Expos

Reds take pair from Pirates

CINCINNATI (AP) — George Foster says baseball is like show biz.

"The fans pay the money and want to be entertained. We're just actors out there," said the Cincinnati slugger Friday night after the Reds opened their largest lead of the season with a doubleheader sweep of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Foster lacked no flair for the dramatic, delivering a two-out, two-run single in the 10th inning to give the Reds a comeback behind 12-11 victory in the opener.

Act Two belonged to Fred Norman, the greybeard of the Reds pitching staff. The 33-year-old lefthander scattered nine hits to extend the Reds season-high winning streak to seven games by taking the nightcap 2-1.

The second largest regular season crowd in Cincinnati history—a throng of 53,328—turned out to watch the Reds keep even with their 1975 pace that produced a club record 108 victories.

"You got a glimpse of the Reds of the past," said Foster after the team rallied three times in the opener. "We're getting it together."

The sweep powered the Reds a full seven games in front of second place Los Angeles in the National League West.

"The Dodgers have to be thinking a little more now," said Ken Griffey, who supplied the game-winning hit in the nightcap, a run scoring single in the seventh.

The Reds tested their Saturday mastery in today's nationally televised game. Cincinnati, 22-3 on Saturdays last season, are 11-2 this year. Jack Billingham, 6-6, faced John Candelaria, 7-4, in the 2:15 p.m. game.

Cincinnati forged back from deficits of 3-0, 9-8 and 11-9 in the opener, finally winning by staging a three-run rally with two out.

Pinch hitter Bob Bailey singled to light the fuse and Pirates relievers Kent Tekulve and Larry Demery followed with three straight walks to force in a run. Foster then finished with a bases-loaded single off Rick Langford.

"When I'm swinging the bat good it really doesn't matter who is out there," said Foster, the National League's RBI leader with 71.

Griffey's game-winning single in the nightcap ruined a bulldog-tough performance by losing pitcher Doc Medich, 5-7.

"Right now things are just going our way," said Griffey. "We've got everybody back in the lineup and we are taking advantage of every little thing."

Doug Flynn keyed both Cincinnati rallies with singled to open the fifth and seventh, scoring both times. Norman, now 7-2 for the season and 29-7 lifetime at Riverfront, moved him into scoring position twice with sacrifice bunts.

No-hit Larry Dierker didn't make any mistakes Friday night. Catcher Ed Herrmann wouldn't let him.

The result was the first no-hitter of the season, a four-walk 6-0 triumph for Dierker and the Houston Astros over the Montreal Expos.

"I caught Joe Horlen's no-hitter in 1967," Herrmann recalled. "I also lost two no-hitters with two out in the ninth. In most of those games I called curve balls which were mistakes, and I made sure I didn't do that tonight."

Elsewhere in the National League, the Cincinnati Reds swept a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates 12-11 in 10 innings and 2-1, the St. Louis Cardinals edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3, the Philadelphia Phillies nipped the San Diego Padres 4-3, the Atlanta Braves downed the New York Mets 5-3 and the Chicago Cubs turned back the San Francisco Giants 5-3.

Dierker had flirted with a no-hitter in the past.

"I've come close before," he said. "I had a perfect game against the Mets through eight innings but lost the game 1-0. In Atlanta, I lost a no-hitter with two out in the ninth and ended up without a decision."

Weiskopf, Miller pressing in Open

SOUTHPORT, England (AP) — Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller are among those who make sure there never is a dull moment on the pro golf tour.

The British Open on Royal Birkdale's 7,001-yard, par-72 course has been no exception. Both never are at a loss for words when questioned about touchy subjects such as Weiskopf's well-publicized "temperament" or Miller's lack of major titles.

"If golf didn't have players like me it would be a very dreary sport," said Weiskopf, taking time out to admonish the press for its treatment of his "temper."

"It's like tennis and Ilie Nastase. That's me, that's my personality."

Miller, on the other hand, treats the press in much softer tones, although he does not care for the constant comparisons between himself and Jack Nicklaus, and particularly the difference in the number of major titles the two have won—Nicklaus 14, Miller 1.

Miller, also not bashful about expressing an opinion, disagrees with most other golfers who say they would rather win one major title than 10 tour events.

Miller just wants to win, and he certainly had placed himself in good position to do that as he entered the final round of play today in second place, two strokes back of surprise leader Severiano Ballesteros of Spain.

Miller has won 17 titles since starting on the tour in 1970, but the U.S. Open in 1973 is his only major.

Miller started Friday's third round two strokes behind Ballesteros. He forged into a two-stroke lead after nine holes, but then fell back as the young Spaniard refused to bow to the pressure that was expected to befall a 19-year-old playing for the first time in a major tournament. Ballesteros eagled the last hole for a final 73 and a 211 score. Miller, also in at 73, had 213.

Only Tom Horton of Britain joined them under par at 215, but still in contention were golfers like Nicklaus and fellow American Ray Floyd, at 216, and Tom Kite at 217.

Washington Country Club tourney pairings announced

Washington Country Club golf pro Tony Capuana has announced the pairings for this Sunday's club championship tournament.

Fifty-one golfers including defending champion Rob Heron will begin teeing off at 8:30 p.m. All golfers will play 18 holes Sunday and the final 18 holes on July 18.

After the first 18-hole round the golfers will be placed in different flights.

This Sunday's pairings follow:
8:30 a.m. — John Moore, Ron Walker, Dan Huffman and Gary Knisley.

9 a.m. — Rob Herron, Douglas Dye, Allen Willoughby and Robert Rine.
9:07 a.m. — Glen Helmick Sr., Donald Anderson, Dan Mahoney and Jim Vess.

9:14 a.m. — Jack Marti, Jim Polk, Robert Hagerty and William Mount.
9:21 a.m. — Roger Miller, David DaRif, Glen Helmick Jr. and Roger Grimm.

9:28 a.m. — William Fricke, Paul Johnson, Charles Cummings and Richard Lewis.
9:35 a.m. — David Garringer, Jeff Brown, Gary Fisher and Willie Hatfield.

CORRECTION

In the Tuesday night Church Softball League, First Baptist beat Madison Mills, 10-9. It was mistakenly reported that Madison Mills had won the game.

Lee Trevino qualified for the 1976 U.S. Open on three counts. Within the past five years he has won the Open, the PGA and two British Opens.

Kansas City edges Detroit, 1-0

'The Bird' loses duel; string snapped

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer

Mark Fidrych went into his act again at Tiger Stadium. He talked to baseballs, smoothed down the mound and slapped backs all over the place. The crowd loved it—everything, that is, except the finale.

The Detroit Tiger pitcher known as "The Bird" for his eccentric behavior usually wins. Friday night, he lost a 1-0 pitching duel to Kansas City's Dennis Leonard.

Spurred by an audience that provided a World Series aura to crusty Tiger Stadium, Leonard struck out eight batters, including five in a row at one point, and improved his record to 9-3.

In the other American League games, the Minnesota Twins beat the Boston Red Sox 8-6; the New York Yankees edged the Chicago White Sox 2-1; the Milwaukee Brewers whipped the Texas Rangers 7-2; the Oakland A's nipped the Cleveland Indians 2-1 and the Baltimore Orioles beat the California Angels 4-3.

Tom Yawkey dead at 73

BOSTON (AP) — Thomas A. Yawkey, the dean of major league baseball club owners, is dead, costing the Boston Red Sox their No. 1 fan.

Yawkey, who purchased the Red Sox in 1933, died in his sleep at New England Baptist Hospital Friday after a lengthy battle with leukemia. He was 73.

The Red Sox listened in stunned silence as they got word from General Manager Dick O'Connell in the clubhouse shortly before a game with the Minnesota Twins.

"It was deeply emotional," O'Connell said, choking back tears. "I told the players Mr. Yawkey had asked me to make sure they were informed first. I also told them of his request that the ball club continue as if he were still around."

Carl Yastrzemski, the Red Sox captain and a 16-year veteran with the club, said of the announcement, "That's the way he would have wanted it," said Yastrzemski, who hit a three-run homer in an 8-6 losing cause.

Although Yawkey had been in and out of the hospital in recent months, the exact nature of his illness was not disclosed until O'Connell's announcement.

The son of a former owner of the Detroit Tigers, Yawkey became interested in baseball at an early age. The immortal Ty Cobb was one of his boyhood idols.

Professional slo-pitch franchises purchased

CLEVELAND (AP) — Lexington, Ky., businessman Don Rardin disclosed Thursday he has purchased franchises for Cleveland and Louisville, Ky., in the newly formed American Professional Slo-Pitch League.

Rardin, who said franchises in the new league cost $25,000 each, has deposited a down payment of $5,000 each for the two teams. Other cities similarly committed are Pittsburgh and Minneapolis.

Tim Koelbe, a spokesman for the league office in Columbus, Ohio, said by telephone that Rochester, N.Y., and Detroit soon will be added as charter members of the APSPL.

lied Ellis, 10-4, in the eighth inning and gained his 17th save of the season.

Brewers 7, Rangers 2

Hank Aaron drove in three runs with his 753rd homer and a two-run double, powering Milwaukee over Texas. Bernie Carbo knocked in the go-ahead run with a fourth-inning single, while winner Ed Rodriguez, 2-5, checked the Rangers on four hits in seven innings of relief.

A's 2, Indians 1

Mike Torrez pitched a fivehitter as Oakland edged Cleveland. Torrez, 8-9, won his second game in a row after failing to win during the entire month of June. It was his sixth consecutive victory over Cleveland in a string that goes back to 1974.

Orioles 4, Angels 3

Lee May's three-run homer in the third inning, the first by a Baltimore player this month, propelled the Orioles over California. May's shot into the left field seats, his 14th of the campaign, followed a single by Bobby Grich and an error and enabled left-hander Rudy May to even his record at 6-6.

Ban the Leghold Trap

We Are Almost There — Please Help

At this point — a single petition could mean success or defeat

"Of timid things, of tortured things, that take so long to die".

The Ohio Committee for Humane Trapping (OCHT) and thousands of concerned Ohio citizens have worked hard to get this far. We need that extra help you can give NOW. Time is running out.

A recent poll commissioned by OCHT show an overwhelming 75% of Ohioans are against the cruel steel-jaw leghold trap. However — Ohio legislators are controlled by strong trapping and hunting lobbyists who have effectively crushed all previous legislation to ban this barbaric instrument of torture. Therefore — the OCHT is in the process of an initiative petition drive to take the issue away from our "lobby pressured" legislators and place it in the hands of Ohio voters.

For those who are not familiar with the Leghold Trap:

The steel-jaw, vise-like trap clamps shut with force on the leg or paw of any animal stepping into it. Sometimes the leg bone of the animal is broken. As the animal struggles to free itself, the jaws of the trap tear into the flesh, causing extreme pain and fear. The animal is held in the trap fully conscious until the trapper returns to bludgeon, stab or shoot it to death. The trapped animal is denied food and water and is exposed to all weather conditions. Often in a frenzy of fear and suffering the poor creature will chew off its own leg to escape. Young children can and do purchase Leghold Traps — set them in the woods and then forget to revisit. These traps are not selective — they can and do catch our pet dogs and cats and wild birds.

PLEASE HELP If you are a registered voter, call immediately (as instructed below). Your petition and simple instructions will be mailed to you at once. (Only 37 signatures per petition). If you can partially fill one or fill several — you are needed. Your effort at this critical time can make the difference for Ohio's wildlife who face another year of torture by trappers using the cruel leghold trap. Signatures must be in no later than July 29th.

For Petitions please call any of the following numbers:

Cincinnati: (513) 381-1300 (7:30 AM to 8:00 PM, 7 days a week)

Additive Reduces Tooth Decay

The reduction of tooth decay by the addition of calcium lactate to sugar-containing cereal and snack foods has been observed at the University of Rochester in New York.

Dr. Buddhi M. Shrestha has found that almost 50 per cent greater reduction of tooth cavities resulted with the use of this chemical in experimental animals.

Calcium lactate apparently does not alter the taste of the food. The research is continuing in human beings.

A new blood test to detect gonorrhea is being tried. Three teams of researchers are comparing the detection rate of this new blood test with the usual bacterial cultures.

The work is proceeding at the Indiana University Student Health Center, Houston, Texas and Seattle, Wash.

A new technique known as "thermodetect" is being used for the study of tumors, cysts and cancers of the breast.

The method is based on the heat that is produced by the tissues over the breast.

Thermal, or heat, studies offer invaluable additional information in the diagnosis of breast conditions.

Cameras can record in color characteristic patterns by which the interpreter can "read" the normalcy or the abnormality of the breast.

These patterns, in addition to the other tests that are available, can show the extent and the exact localization of problems that may exist in the breast.

The progress made in the early detection and treatment of cancer of the breast accounts for the remarkable statistics of recovery that are now being reported all over the world.

DR. LESTER COLEMAN has a special eye care booklet available called "What You Should Know About Glaucoma and Cataracts." Christians continue offensive

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Christians pounded the coastal town of Enfe again today, trying to complete the takeover of the northern province of Koura, where 1,500 persons have died in five days of savage fighting.

Enfe is reported to be the last Moslem-held town in the province as the Christians continue to push out of their enclave north of Beirut after throwing back a Moslem drive into the Christian heartland Monday.

The Moslems accused Syria of helping in the Christian assault. The leftist-controlled Beirut radio said Friday that Damascus added three motorized battalions to its forces in Lebanon. The radio said Syrian artillery was shelling the Moslem-held southern port of Sidon.

Beirut radio said the shelling caused many casualties and extensive damage, and said the American-owned refinery at the port was burning. The report said the artillery prevented firemen from getting near the refinery, owned by Mobil, Caltex and other American companies.

Palestinians and Moslem leftists attacked Christian positions in Beirut's port area and downtown banking district. But security forces said the attack was repulsed.

The battle continued Friday for Tal Zaatar, the Palestinian refugee camp in southeast Beirut which has been under heavy Christian assault for 17 days. Christian officers said the defenders only have one high building left under their control. They said if that building is taken, the camp could be overrun in 24 hours.

The Soviet Union on Friday indicated the 13,000 Syrian troops Lebanon should withdraw. In its strongest statement on the war so far, Moscow backed the Palestinians saying: "The involvement of Syrian military units in Lebanon has further aggravated the situation," the Soviets said.

The statement contradicted claims from Damascus that the Soviet Union was backing Syrian intervention in the 14-month Lebanese war, which has killed an estimated 32,000 persons.

The Syrians stepped in when the leftists appeared to be winning, and have been supporting the Christian side. However, there was speculation Friday that Damascus might be reversing its stand and trying to rein in the Christians now that they are on the offensive, in order to restore balance and get both sides to negotiate an end to the fighting.

$2 bill

proves flop

WASHINGTON (AP) — There's a lot of buck-passing when it comes to the $2 bill. Despite government predictions that "the two" would be warmly received by the public as a partial substitute for the $1 bill, it so far has been a flop — hoarded but not spent.

More than 210 million twos have been delivered by the government to banks, but relatively few have found their way into general circulation, officials say.

Millions of dollars worth apparently are being hoarded as collectors' items, especially those issued April 13, the first day.

Although officials aren't giving up on the $2 bill yet, there's a lot of finger-pointing on who's to blame for the poor reception.

The Treasury Department blames banks and retailers; banks blame the public and the government; the Bureau of Engraving and Printing blames the U.S. Postal Service and the Federal Reserve Board.

Davis Memorial in Adams County, 3.5 miles southeast of Peebles on Township Road 129, is a natural history preserve.

Opening lead — king of diamonds.

There are relatively few deals that require a defender to make an unusual play to defeat a contract. But such opportunities do occur from time to time, and on these deals a defender must rise to the occasion to earn his keep.

Consider this case where South, after passing originally, wound up at five clubs doubled and West led the king of diamonds. Declarer ruffed, played the A-K of trumps, and returned a heart from dummy, East following low.

South won with the king and exited with a heart, taken by East with the queen. East returned a diamond, ruffed by South, and when declarer then ruffed a heart in dummy, his 9-6 of hearts became established.

As a result, South was later able to discard two spades from dummy and wound up with eleven tricks after ruffing a spade with dummy's last trump. His only losers were a heart and a spade.

West could have beaten the contract by leading a spade at trick one, but his diamond lead was certainly normal.

The true villain of the piece was East, who should have realized — when declarer ruffed the A-K of trumps — that South had a two-suited hand containing lots of clubs and hearts.

East should have gone up with the queen of hearts on the first heart lead from dummy. South would win with the king, all right, but West would then have a heart entry for the necessary spade shift. East should have credited his partner with the king or jack of hearts, because — if West had neither of them — there was no chance of defeating the contract.
